DISCLAIMER

The data in this analysis have been compiled from many sources including personal research, family group sheets, the International Genealogical Index, communications with the descendants of the AUSTINS discussed herein, contributions from other researchers as well as vital statistics from censuses and other official records. As far as known no copyrighted material is included in this narrative.

Every effort has been made to insure all historical and genealogical data contained herein is accurate and documented as thoroughly as possible. However, regardless of diligence, it is an inescapable fact that when genealogical and historical data are transcribed between mediums and individuals there is a built-in transcription error rate up to 10%. For this reason alone errors and inconsistencies may be found. For these we apologize and welcome corrections.

We assume no responsibility for any parts considered slanderous or libelous to any individual, family or family member. Likewise, readers are given ample warning that some of the material may be based on speculation and – when known – this material is identified as such. The compiler assumes no responsibility if this speculative material is extracted as factual and applied to any ongoing genealogical research or family genealogy. The reader should bear in mind that this is a research document and within that context should be considered an incentive to further research rather than a fait accompli.
